Levels are zones

Support is where buyers stepped in before. Resistance is where sellers stepped in before. Price remembers these areas.

- Draw zones, not thin lines. Use the wicks and bodies together.
- More touches = stronger level, but each touch also weakens it a little.
- Round numbers (60,000 / 70,000) often act as levels.

KEY IDEA

Role reversal

When resistance breaks, it often becomes support. When support breaks, it often becomes resistance.

HOW TO TRADE IT

Wait for the break, then buy the retest of old resistance as new support. Stop goes below the zone.

HOW TO FIND THEM

Drawing levels step by step

1. Zoom out
   Open the 4h or daily chart
2. Mark reactions
   Find places where price turned sharply at least 2 to 3 times
3. Draw zones
   Box from the wicks to the bodies of those turns
4. Clean up
   Keep only the 3 to 5 most obvious levels near current price
5. Drop down
   Go to 1h and wait for price to reach a level

MISTAKE TO AVOID

Too many lines. If your chart looks like a barcode, every price is "support".

CHECKLIST

Support bounce checklist

- [ ] Level has 2+ clear reactions on the higher timeframe
- [ ] Price arrives at the zone (not near it)
- [ ] Rejection candle: long lower wick or bullish engulfing
- [ ] Higher timeframe trend is not strongly down
- [ ] Stop below the zone plus a small buffer
- [ ] Target = next resistance, at least 2R away

Now test yourself.

Reading a guide is step one. Spotting the setup on a live chart, fast, is the real skill. That is what the daily quiz trains.
